MODULE DESCRIPTION

Module Aims	This practical, employment-focused module equips students with the language and communication skills required for recruitment and human resources contexts. Through speaking, writing, and reading tasks such as job interviews, video CVs, and cover letters, students practise functional grammar structures and vocabulary relevant to the workplace. The module also supports professional fluency through idiomatic language, argument identification, statement evaluation, understanding of business and marketing terminology, and simulation of authentic recruitment scenarios.

Teaching Arrangement	Students will engage in interactive workshops, peer reviews, and individual presentations, culminating in a video CV and job interview simulation. TOEIC, TOEFL, or IELTS preparation is included where relevant. The module will be delivered as 9 classes of 3 hours taught weekly over the 10-week semester.
Learning Outcomes	By the end of this module, students should be able to: 1. Design and produce professional CVs and cover letters, demonstrating grammatical accuracy and precise vocabulary use, and perform confidently in job interviews, using appropriate language, tone, and interpersonal strategies. 2. Demonstrate mastery and understanding of vocabulary related to HR, recruitment, and job satisfaction, including interpreting business and marketing terms from an article. 3. Appropriately apply complex grammatical structures, including conditions and "used to" expressions within professional contexts. 4. Analyse and interpret written and spoken business materials, employing advanced reading skills, such as inferring meaning, deconstructing arguments, and paraphrasing complex ideas, to support critical engagement with authentic texts. 5. Interpret idiomatic and figurative expressions accurately within professional communication. 6. Prepare for standardised English proficiency tests. 7. Identify and critically assess an author's main argument and evaluate statements for accuracy, reliability, and bias drawing on textual evidence to substantiate interpretations.
